The Homer Yankees hosted the Nationals for a Monday night matchup. The Yankees' pitchers led by Miles Franco cooled the Nationals' bats. The Nats were only able to notch two hits on the night. One notable hit was an impressive triple ripped by Evan Rogoff which bounced off the center field fence. Rogoff's triple jump started the Nationals only productive inning. They were able to plate three runs to bring the game back to even, but the Yankees displayed a formidable offensive attack. They cracked 10 hits and were able to score in every inning. With the combination of solid pitching and a potent offensive display, the Yankees notched the win. The Nationals slide to 3-3 on the season. The Nationals will host the Reds at NBT Field on Wednesday night.
